LAHQ to Honor Leiweke, Boyle

The Los Angeles Headquarters Association is getting ready to honor two Downtowners as part of its 48th annual awards luncheon.

On Tuesday, April 28, in the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion, the LAHQ will present its Spirit of Los Angeles Award to Tim Leiweke, president and CEO of Anschutz Entertainment Group, the developer of L.A. Live and Staples Center. The Humanitarian Award will go to Father Gregory Boyle, who runs the gang intervention organization Homeboy Industries, which is headquartered in Chinatown. Tickets for the event, which will also honor WET Design and the Autry National Center, are $175 or $165 for LAHQ members. The Los Angeles Headquarters Association was founded in 1965 with the goal of helping businesses open their headquarters in the Los Angeles area. Tickets and other information at laheadquarters.com.
